

Role : Performance Analyst/ Senior Performance Analyst
Location : London
Type : Permanent

Successful long/short equity hedge fund in London seeks Performance Analyst to have overall responsibility for the production, monitoring and control of performance data to be used for external client reporting and source of strategic recommendations to the Investment Committee. The performance measurement and reporting process is currently under review within the business and the candidate would ideally have involvement in supporting the development of a more centralised and automated performance measurement and reporting process, potentially incorporating new software and applications. This role has high visibility as you will be reporting directly to the Chief Financial Officer.

To be considered for the role, you will have at least 3-5 years experience in performance production, analysis and reporting. You should have experience in calculating returns on long/short equity portfolios as well as the ability to work under pressure. In return you will be financially rewarded and also establish a rewarding career in a firm that only employs the best. Candidates should have graduated with a quantitative degree from a reputable university.

You will be working with a team of the industry's most regarded investment professionals in an environment characterized by great camaraderie and a drive for results. Excellent career progression to senior/ director levels, training and opportunities to pursue further qualifications await you.
